Cubs—Cole or Piester and Kling.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The cold drizzle of rain which began at 4 o'clock this morning stopped shortly before noon today, leaving every spot at the baseball grounds except the straw-covered infield cold and soggy.

The air was raw and chill and the tramping thousands who carried great pathways of mud into the stands with them simply had to keep lively in order to chase out the damp cold which was added in making the fans uncomfortable by a heavy pall of mist and straggling clouds that the sun never had a chance to break through.

For the Athletics Coombs and Thomas were selected by Crafty Connie Mack to do the battering work. Frank Chance didn't decide whether it would be Cole or Piester who would do the pitching until a few seconds before the game. Kling, of course, was to be at the receiving end.

Nearly 15,000 persons had been passed through the gates to the Cubs ball park at noon today. Since the drizzle of rain stopped shortly before noon, the open bleachers were crowded with men and women who risked wearing apparel and health to see the big teams play the third game of the world's series.

With perfect weather here during the late unpleasantness, the weather man, who is rumored to be a Cub rooster, punctured the mercury bulb last night and the thermometer dropped from the high seventies to the low fifties.

Along with the drop came a drizzling rain, which lasted throughout the early morning hours and sent thousands of fans, who arose for a peek at the weather, back to the goose whiskers.

It took more than climatic catastrophes to kill off all the baseball bugs, and at 12:30 this morning, three closely muffled and heavily bottled candidates for first row honors took a position before the box office at West Side Park.

Before an hour had passed they had been joined by other railbirds, and by the time the sun was up, but not out, the snaky, shivering line had grown to several hundred.

Nine thirty was the hour set for opening the gates, but long before that hour an insistent throng was pushing and shoving about the entrances, apparently unmindful of the fact that weather conditions might have to be considered.

At 10 o'clock the skies tried hard to get clear, and the Government weather forecaster declared he believed it possible that the Cubs and Athletics would be able to play.

Hundreds of women had stood in the drizzle since dawn to get tickets for the game. With the men, they ate lunches, sold to them by shrewd frankfurter men, and at 10 o'clock the army had swelled to 3,000.

Police intervention was necessary in many instances to settle disputes about places in the line.

A bright sunshiny day might have served to lift the load from the hearts of Chicago fandom, at least until the game was under way, but today—classified in the weather catalogue as "soul-crushing drizzle"—was a day even for a Chicagoan and festoons of gloom hung from the atmosphere itself.

Every Chicago sporting editor's offering today was an "aid" to "optimism." Each scribbled apparently labored diligently to convince himself and his readers that the Cubs were to

WEATHER REPORT.

The southern storm is now centered near Hatteras, moving very slowly northwestward off the coast. It has lost considerable energy during the last twenty-four hours. It has, nevertheless, caused extensive rains in Atlantic coast sections and high winds on the southern and central coasts. Moreover, generally unsettled conditions have prevailed in middle and southwestern sections in connection with the disturbance which was reported Wednesday in the West. High winds with snow have prevailed on the northern Lakes, and sn. has fallen on the eastern Rocky Mountain slope as far south as the Texas Panhandle, and sleet is falling in northwestern Kansas. Freezing temperature prevails generally on the eastern slope of the Rockies, and as far east as the upper Missouri valley and in northern and central Minnesota. Temperatures are still comparatively high in Eastern sections.

FORECAST FOR THE DISTRICT.
Threatening and unsettled weather tonight and Friday; much cooler; brisk northwesterly winds.

ARCHITECTS RAGE FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Sixty Send Plans From Which District Choice
Is to Be Made.

The Treasury Department announced today the institution of three limited competitions for the selection of architects who will design the three new buildings for the Department of State, Justice and Labor.

Assistant Secretary Hilles said that the primary object of the competition, which already has been entered by some of the leading architects of the United States, would be the selection of competent architects, more than designs. This because of the requirement that the architectural creators of the new buildings must modify and restudy their plans until the whole shall form a harmonious composition.

The magnificent buildings will cost in the aggregate $7,750,000, and the table of requirements furnished architects by the Treasury Department specifies that the style of architecture adopted must be in keeping with the best existing work in the National Capital.

The buildings will occupy the land bounded by Pennsylvania avenue, the Mall, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

Provision has been made for an expert commission of award, to report on the relative merits of the designs, but the names of the judges will not be made public at this time.

The limit of cost fixed for the Department of Justice is $1,500,000; for the Department of State, $2,200,000; and for the Department of Commerce and Labor, $3,550,000. The buildings for the Department of State and Justice will be three stories and basement; that of Commerce and Labor will be five stories and basement.

The ground area of the building for the Department of Commerce and Labor will be 50,000 square feet; that of the Department of State, 72,000 square feet; and that of the Department of Justice, 50,000 square feet.

The competition will close December 30. The programmes limit the height of the exterior orders to forty-five feet, including columns and entablature, the style of architecture adopted must be in keeping with the best existing work in Washington.

The designs must be executed by a regular office force of each competitor; perspective sketches are prohibited; and the primary object of the competition is the selection of an architect and not the designs at all. The submitted designs must be restudied until they shall form a harmonious composition.

WRECK KILLS FIVE ON HOCKING VALLEY

SANDUSKY, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Hocking valley passenger train, No. 23, was wrecked five miles south of Sandusky today. Five persons are reported killed. The train was bound from Columbus to Toledo.

Before an hour had passed they had been joined by other railbirds, and by the time the sun was up, but not out, the snaky, shivering line had grown to several hundred.

Nine thirty was the hour set for opening the gates, but long before that hour an insistent throng was pushing and shoving about the entrances, apparently unmindful of the fact that weather conditions might have to be considered.

Wanamaker a Delegate.
Many of the most important Christian workers in the country were at the conference. The list includes former Postmaster General John W. Foster, of Philadelphia; former Secretary of State Gen. John W. Foster, Miss Helen Gould, George W. Perkins, of the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. Anson Phelps Stokes, the great philanthropist of Connecticut; William Sloan, of New York; Melville E. Stone, of New York; Robert Cluett, the collar manufacturer; Gen. Leonard Wood, Joshua Levering, twice the prohibition candidate for President of Baltimore; D. Ganale, the soap manufacturer of Cincinnati; Dr. Howard A. Kelly, the eminent physician of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore; William A. Patton, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

For three hours the conference lasted. The ideas had been outlined by John R. Mott, secretary of the department of foreign work of the International Y. M. C. A. work.

Macfarland Is Chairman.
H. B. F. Macfarland called the conference to order. He first introduced Mr. Mott, who said that eighteen months ago, at the Edinburgh Missionary Conference, it was determined that the "Christ-ward" movement must be pushed now or else the nations not yet evangelized would choose some substitute.

Mr. Mott then declared that at least $1,500,000 was necessary in order to carry this idea into effect. It was shown that the association needs forty-seven new buildings, which will cost

DAVID B. HILL DEAD; SUMMONS OF DEATH CAME AT 3:45 A. M.

Former Senator and Democratic Leader Dies At His Residence.

NURSE ONLY PERSON PRESENT AT DEATH

National Figure In Politics—Former New York Governor Aspired to Presidency.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Former United States Senator David B. Hill died at his residence, Woolf's Roost, at 3:45 this morning.

For two weeks he had been ill with a cold and complications. Last week the Senator's condition was serious, but he seemed to improve this week, and yesterday was in good spirits.

Mr. Hill's age and the tax upon his vitality, however, had brought a change during the night. The only person in attendance at the time of his death was the Senator's nurse.

Last of Old Guard.

David Bennett Hill was the last of the old time politicians who made Democratic history in New York State, when that party secured control of the State government following the famous Stalwart and Halfbreed Republican fight which involved President Chester A. Arthur and Senator Roscoe Conkling.

He was for years in absolute control of the Democratic party organization in the State, and his bitter conflicts with the Grover Cleveland organization finally culminated in Cleveland abandoning New York State as his home.

As a fighter Hill had no superior, and as in the case of all men of his stripe, his enemies were implacable haters while his friends were loyal worshippers. Hill in the very height of his sway in this State was characterized by the close followers of President Cleveland as a "peanut politician," and he was a large accepted this expression as representing the man for many years.

DEALERS CHARGE PLAN TO CORNER SUPPLY OF MILK

But They Give No Specific
Proof When Questioned
At Hearing.

SCIENTISTS FAVOR TUBERCULIN TEST

Assert It Has Proved Its Worth
In Thirty-three Cities of the Country.

What the Milk Hearing
Developed Today

Charges made by A. S. Trundle and Corbin Thompson that "multi-millionaire" milk trust is behind health regulations.

Accusers requested by Commissioners to produce specific evidence. Charges will not be considered unless made in writing and accompanied by evidence.

Representatives of dealers attack reliability of bacterial count, temperature regulations, tuberculin test, and pasteurization.

Scientists from Department of Agricultural and Public Health and Marine Hospital Service uphold them.

Declaring that a "millionaire milk trust" is "perpetrating an audacious scheme to control the milk supply of the United States," that more than $300,000,000 capital is represented in the enterprise, and that the District Health Department is "unwittingly playing into the hands of this gigantic enterprise," Corbin Thompson, vice president of the Milk Dealers' Association, of Washington, made a series of sensational charges against the Health Department at a hearing before the District Commissioners today.

Names of capitalists said to be identified with the milk trust were placed in the hands of the Commissioners by Mr. Thompson.

Levi P. Morton, Thomas F. Ryan, Anthony Brady, and E. J. Berwind head the list. Other prominent financiers named were James B. Marce, Henry D. Cook, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., H. L. Wiley, Hugh Grant Browne, Eugene Del Mar, John F. Flager, Horace W. Henshaw, Eben Dedley, Lyman B. Kelbourne, and W. L. Moody.

Charges Similar.
Chairman Trundle and Mr. Thompson made practically the same charges concerning the alleged "multi-millionaire" Milk trust, and the same declaration, that it is this influence which is behind the District Health Department, the Agricultural Department, and the Washington physicians who have interested themselves in bringing about a purification of Washington's milk supply.

When pinned down to specific facts and forced to forego generalities, neither Mr. Trundle nor Mr. Thompson gave any evidence to substantiate their accusations. Commissioner Rudolph interrupted this statement:

"Gentlemen, we must ask you to stick to facts and to produce evidence before we can seriously consider any such charges as you have made. Mr. Thompson, where is this gigantic trust?"

"Well," replied the chairman, "if you'd been in the milk business for thirty-five years as I have you would have seen evidences of it between my lines. I merely throw out the suggestion that this trust exists, and is exerting its powerful influences to drive the dealers of raw milk out of business, and I hope the Commissioners will conduct an investigation."

Wants Written Evidence.
"It seems peculiar," said Commissioner Rudolph, "that if such a big trust exists there is not some tangible evidence of it to be had. You make a serious charge against the Health Department and the Agricultural Department, but unless you can substantiate it you surely cannot expect it to be seriously considered. Give us written evidence that such influences are at work, will you, Mr. Thompson?"

Mr. Thompson replied that the fact that the Health Department, the Agricultural Department, and the Washington doctors advocate pasteurization is proof that they are interested in the manufacture and sale of pasteurized machinery.

This was denied by the scientists of the departments when they testified. They declared they advocated pasteurization only as a temporary expedient to

May Go on the Supreme Court Bench

JUSTICE DANIEL THEW WRIGHT,
Washington Jurist May Be Appointed To Highest Tribunal By Taft.

PRESIDENT PLUNGES INTO WORK AT ONCE

Reaches Washington Early
Today and Receives
Many Callers.

President Taft arrived with his family from New York and Beverly this morning at 7:45 o'clock, and at once plunged into one of the busiest days since the end of the last session of Congress.

After arriving at the White House about 9 o'clock, the President breakfasted and attended the conference of International Y. M. C. A. officers and their supporters, delivered an address to the conference in the East Room of the White House, hurried to his office and began receiving a long line of callers.

Secretary Norton, who returned to Washington with his chief, also put in a busy forenoon.

The President had not reached the Executive office when Attorney General Clegg called. The latter declared he had no matters of immediate importance to take up with the President at this time.

A few minutes later Senator Cullum of Illinois called. He, too, was disappointed for the conference of the International Y. M. C. A. officers and their supporters, delivered an address to the conference in the East Room of the White House, hurried to his office and began receiving a long line of callers.

Secretary Norton, who returned to Washington with his chief, also put in a busy forenoon.

Senator Scott of West Virginia was also a caller during the morning. He assured the President that West Virginia was both safe and sane, and that it would return a solid delegation of Administration Republicans to the next Congress.

Assistant Attorney General Oscar Lawrence called. He remained but a few minutes. Minister Knowles also looked in to greet the President.

George Gerhauser, of 308 East Capitol street, was arrested today following the death of Arthur Bell, an aged negro, this morning.

Gerhauser is held in bail of $5,000 for the coroner's investigation.

WASHINGTON JUDGE FOR SUPREME COURT

Justice Daniel Thew Wright
May Be Selected By President Taft.

Justice Daniel Thew Wright, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, is being seriously considered by President Taft as a new member of the United States Supreme Court. It became known today from an authentic source.

Aside from the brilliant career of Justice Wright and his conspicuous record on the District bench, it is argued, that one preference he has in the mind of the President is that he is a native of Ohio and was once prominent in the politics of the Buckeye State. His home is at Riverside, Ohio, where he served as mayor, and at the time of his appointment as Justice on the District Supreme Bench was judge of the court of the common pleas of Hamilton county.

Justice Wright was appointed as one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in November, 1904, and since then has presided in several cases of national import, among them being the contempt proceedings involving Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor.

Friends of Justice Wright urge that, although he is a believer in the principle of organized labor, his action in the case of Gompers, Mitchell, and Morrison stamped him as a justice who will act without prejudice, fear, or favor. They say that several other cases he has had in his capacity as justice in the District Supreme Court have carried out this belief to even a clearer conception of his qualifications.

The appointment of Justice Wright to the United States Supreme Court bench, it also is urged, would have a beneficial bearing on the status of Ohio politics at this time.

CHARLES F. BALL DIES
ON VISIT TO FATHER

Well-Known Farmer of Leesburg
Succumbs Suddenly While In Capital.

Charles Fayette Ball, a well-known farmer of near Leesburg, Va., died this morning at the residence of his father, G. W. Ball, 307 Q street northwest, while on a visit.

Mr. Ball was a native of Leesburg, Va., and had for many years conducted a farm near that town.

Besides his father, Mr. Ball left one brother, R. T. M. Ball, U. S. N., and four sisters. Funeral services will be held in Leesburg Saturday, and burial will be in the family lot.

PHILADELPHIAN KILLS
WIFE AND HIMSELF

Jealousy Is Supposed to Have Caused Man to Enact Double Tragedy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—The bodies of John Bothwell, fifty-three years old, and his wife Catherine, forty-eight, the victims of a double tragedy, were found this morning at their home, 3221 Titan street.

The police say that Bothwell shot his wife to death and then ended his own life. Jealousy is supposed to have been the motive.

The woman's body was found in a bed in the second story front room. That of the man was found in the kitchen. Under it was found the revolver.

BIG LINER WRECKED OFF FLORIDA COAST; 500 LIVES IN PERIL

Louisiana Goes Ashore on Sombroso Reef—Two Hundred Rescued.

THRILLING STORIES TOLD OF DISASTER

Vessel Driven on Rocks During Hurricane—Cutter Takes Off 200.

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 20.—(Via Havana.)—The French Trans-Atlantic liner Louisiana, bound from Havre to New Orleans, has been wrecked on Sombroso Reef in the Southern hurricane.

Two hundred of her passengers have been rescued but there are still 377 others and a crew of 36 on board.

The rescued passengers arrived here today on board the revenue cutter Forward with thrilling stories of the disaster.

The vessel was driven ashore at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon during the hurricane, all control of the ship being lost in the storm.

STORM WHIPS COAST; VEERS OFF SEAWARD

The storm that swept devastation through Cuba and Florida and plowed along the Atlantic coast early this morning, taking a heavy toll in human life, veered seaward shortly before 10 o'clock today.

This information, reported from the Weather Bureau here, was flashed all along the coast, and was the signal for general rejoicing. Since the wind and rain showed little diminution today, seaport cities feared that the storm had not yet outlived its power for danger.

Strikes Washington.
The tail of the storm whipped across Washington shortly after midnight this morning. The wind here did not reach a high velocity, as compared with the fifty miles an hour that it skimmed across the Southern States, but nearly two inches of rain fell within forty-five minutes.

Other points nearer the coast felt the effects more severely. In New York the velocity of the wind reached thirty-five miles an hour, and the temperature took a sudden tumble of 10 degrees.

The main storm left the Atlantic coast off North Carolina, according to the Weather Bureau report today. The breeze that hit the Northern coast lost considerable fury and in New Jersey where heavy rains fell, the breeze was slight.

Checks Forest Fires.
The heavy rainfall was joyfully received in some sections of the country, particularly throughout New Jersey, where forest fires have been raging for many hours. These fires, which at one stage threatened the estate of the late E. H. Herriman, at Arden, have been extinguished by the rain and the volunteer fire fighters after hours of work have returned to their homes.

Coastwise trade along the Atlantic is greatly hampered.

The downpour of rain in New York today caused serious floods in all the lower sections of the greater city, especially along West street, in Manhattan and in Williamsburg. West street was flooded as far as the East Line car tracks, and commuters had trouble getting across the thoroughfare.

A number of women on their way to work were carried across West street by chivalrous men. Washington market was partly flooded, and there was considerable damage to commission houses in the neighborhood. The flood over in the Williamsburg section was the worst since 1903. The water was three feet deep.

CABLES FROM CUBA AGAIN ARE WORKING

HAVANA, Oct. 20.—Although Key West is still cut off from communication with the other parts of the United States, the cables to Cuba are working.

Dispatches received today by La Lucha announce that the principal damage done in Key West by the storm was to shipping. The Norwegian steamer Fos is still stranded at Marguerite bank. Standard Oil barge No. 24 has been driven ashore on Sand Key. An unidentified schooner has been piled up on the Western dry dock.

Theighthouse on the main ship channel at Key West was blown down by the force of the wind. The Florida East railway, below Miami, has been washed out, and it will require a month to place it in repair so as to handle trains.

LOEB TALKS WITH TREASURY CHIEFS

Collector of the Port Loeb, of New York called at the Treasury Department today to discuss several matters of importance with Secretary MacVeagh, who returned to Washington today. He also had a conference with Assistant Secretaries of the Treasury Hilles and Curtis.

Collector Loeb, beyond stating that he discussed the Duven undervaluation frauds with Mr. Curtis, declined to be interviewed. It is thought that Mr. Loeb, among other things, discussed the New York political situation with Secretary MacVeagh, particularly how far customs employees will be allowed to engage in the present campaign.
